respondent to-day:

"Permit me to say that the object of the Director of the Mint was nothing of the kind. His business is to state facts, and not to advocate theories. From undoubted facts, as premises, he may draw indisputable conclusions. Beyond that he has no right to go, and beyond that he has not gone."

Mr. Preston then quoted from the report of Dr. Soetheer, the noted statistician, to show that the production of gold in recent years has been as follows: In 1890, 178,826 kilograms; in 1891, 198,534 kilograms; in 1892, 220,129 kilograms; in 1893, 234,005 kilograms.

He added: "Enough is already known of the production of 1834 to show an increase over 1833, but what the percentage of increase will be I am not yet prepared to say. I believe the figures given above establish the truth of the contention that the production of gold was never so rapid as it is to-day."

became irregular in his habits, principally because all his five children died. Later he lost his practice, all his five children died. Later he lost his practice, and finally he was guffly of appropriating the money of one of his clients. For this he was convicted and sent to State Prison for two and one-half years, but was pardoned by Governor Hill after half the term had expired. Three years ago his wife died. For some time he had lived in lodging-houses, with difficulty procuring the little money necessary to keep him alive. His brother, Hugh Reavey, a lawyer, whose office is in the Potter Building, has taken charge of the body.
